GoodHome
always simplifying

We believe a good home is a home that provides a feeling of space and comfort.

To make this work, we think it's important that the ingredients you put in - colours, materials and finishes, work well with the original features of your home - like the layout, proportions and amount of light. We know from our research with architects and designers, that this can create a sense of space and harmony.

Based on this understanding, we develop products and solutions that can help you create a space that you'll feel good about.

a hallway to be proud of

Painting colour halfway up the wall and keeping it to one section, creates an illusion of space and light. Using the warming durable GoodHome paint in pimlico shade on the bottom half of the wall means mucky fingerprints can be easily wiped away without effecting the wall colour.

painting a wall

prepare...

It's worth spending a little time and care over preparing your walls before you paint. It's important that walls are given a really good clean to ensure they're free from grease, dust and bits of wallpaper. Don't forget to fill holes and cracks, and sand down flaky plaster.

top tip

If you've nowhere else to store your furniture when you decorate place it in the centre of the room and cover with dust sheets.

do...

Coat the whole roller in paint. Use an extension pole for any spaces you can't reach. Starting from the highest point, use a brush to cut around the edges.

Diall flat paint brush

Dustpan and brush

transform your home with paint

Your colour choice could have an impact on the lightness of a room, especially in the smaller, darker places of your home, but we'll help you get it right.

If you'd like to create a brighter room, we recommend using whites, creams and yellows. You could even be adventurous with colour by adding a brighter hue with accessories, or paint the bottom section of your wall.

Our tester pots are a great way to see your choice of colour on the walls before you take the plunge with a larger pot. Painting different parts of your wall will let you gauge the colour in different lights.

top tip

Once you've painted your walls, why not freshen up and coordinate your ceiling, coving and windows too!

tiling a floor

prepare...

The surface you're tiling needs to be even, flat, dry and free from damp, and the correct adhesive should be used. If you've had other tiles or sheet flooring, you'll need to remove any adhesive from the floor before beginning.

Mapei plaster primer

Mapei shower waterproofing kit

£14.10

top tip

You'll want to be able to exit the room without walking across your freshly laid tiles. So, work into the furthest corner of the room first so you finish by the door.

do...

Once you're prepared, use a trowel to place the adhesive on the ground and use a twisting action to bed your tiles into it. Be sure to use tile spacers between each tile to ensure they're evenly spaced.

Notched trowel
05123681

£22

top tip

If you're tiling a room you need to access regularly, such as a bathroom or kitchen, consider tiling one half of the room first and then tiling the second half once this is dry.

finish...

Whatever colour grout you decide on, you'll need to make sure your grout is suitable for use with your tiles, and that you'll have enough for your project – check the packaging for coverage details.

Mapei flexible ivory wall and floor grout
8022452048326

Diall sponge

£2.84

top tip

Wait a day for the grout to properly set and wash the floor with water and a microfibre floor mop to get any extra residue off the tiles and grout.

choosing tiles

A staple of hallways, bathrooms and kitchens, floor tiles not only add style to a room, but are incredibly durable too. Perfect for rooms where there’s lots of moisture and activity.

experiment with patterns

From simple linear and small format brick bond, to ambitious herringbone and basket weave, there are a number of patterns you can choose to arrange your tiles in.

go big or stick to small and intricate

What size tiles do you want for your hallway? Will you combine different sizes for a more unique look? Do you want larger tiles to create an impact and make the room feel bigger? Or will you choose smaller, more detailed mosaic tiles?

experiment with colours and textures

From pretty patterns, to simple and understated, whether you’re looking for bright and bold, or soft and subtle, we’ve got the tiles for just about any style. Nature doesn’t have to stop at the front door – add marble, stone, wood or concrete effect tiles to create a more natural feel in the hallway.

play around with different grout options

Your choice of grout can transform your tiling choice too. You can subtly complement your tiling with similar coloured grout or make them really pop with black grout against white tiles to avoid harsh grid lines. Using a grout colour that matches your tile will open the space and can create the illusion of a single surface.

solid wood flooring

prepare...

Most wood floors need an underlay for cushioning, soundproofing and insulation. The type of underlay you choose will depend on the floor you've decided on and what type of surface you'll be laying it on.

£13.50 per pack
68p per sq.m

top tip
Always use a vapour membrane when laying flooring in a high moisture area, to protect from water damage.

do...

The way the boards fit or lock together varies slightly between manufacturers, so always check the fitting instructions that come with your flooring.

Magnusson solid wood flooring fitting kit

£5.98

top tip
Laying flooring can be very hard on the knees, so let a pair of knee pads take some of the strain.

finish...

Once you've picked your flooring, there are a few more final touches to consider. Flooring trims or scotia are decorative mouldings that hide any unsightly gaps between the edges of your flooring and your skirting boards or walls.

GoodHome aluminium curved threshold bar
3663602529231
Matt silver effect

make it theirs

Your kid’s bedroom is often the place where you can be a bit daring with colour, and where they can be a bit more creative. But they grow up quickly, so you need to be ready for when they want more of that teenage independence, and want to spend more time in their room.

Use a lamp or fairy lights to help dim the light at bed time

Pick their favourites with a choice of 80 colours

a bedroom to be proud of

The three zones help define the area and each has a different colour palette. Tranquil burgundy for the sleeping area, inspiring yellow for the play area and focussed neutrals for the study area. Shapes and different painting effects also create a more unique space.

how to personalise and zone

Choose a harmony that suits your home by injecting warm or cool tones. Use accessories to complement its function and create unity and balance throughout your home with colour. Don't be afraid to stay neutral and keep it personal for a home you and your family can all enjoy.

sleep

For a calm and balanced look, use lighter shades on the wall to inject some warm tones and brighten up the room. By introducing the cosy factor you can bring layers of texture through accessories, pillows and even wall art. For a good night's sleep we recommend low lighting as this will create a calm and relaxing atmosphere as you prepare for sleep.

play

Be creative and dare to go bright, by personalising your room with shapes or imagery. To create a harmonious atmosphere, use contrasting colours that complement each other. For a more personalised touch, you could always include illustrations from your favourite book or game.

study

Inspiration is key when avoiding distraction. Inject some cool tones into your room when concentration is required and include a pop of colour for extra energy and to help stimulate the mind.

upcycling

bring old toys back to life

Just because your child has grown out of their toys, doesn't mean you can't find another use for them. Look for paint that's toy safe and make wood, metal and plastic toys cool again.

upcycle a frame

The self-priming formulation means less time preparing – so simply wipe down and clean. We recommend sanding metal and wood to remove rough spots before painting.

metal desk chair

With so many different types of renovation paints, you can easily upcycle most of what's in your room right now.

How to prepare

First, clean with sugar soap and then lightly sand the surface. Paint at least two coats with a round brush, perfect for those finer details.

Finish with GoodHome furniture durable lacquer for added protection from knocks and scratches.

always check

The bottom of your shoes – this will avoid spreading paint around your home.

clean your tools

Use warm soapy water for water-based paint. You can use solvent-based cleaners or water-based clean spirit too. Dry your tools afterwards to prevent rust.

maintain your brushes

Wrap in paper towel and seal with masking tape before storing. This will help them return to shape for next time. Make sure you store them flat so the bristles don't bend.

clean the floor

Take the opportunity to dust or mop the floor, as it may be a while before you move your furniture again. Watch out for the freshly painted walls!

paint can splashes

Any spots of paint in fixed fittings can usually be removed by wiping with a damp cloth. For more stubborn spots, try using clean spirit with a cloth to remove the excess paint.

tidying up

Fold dust sheets towards the middle to avoid any spills or drips your floor. Take them outside and shake to get rid of unwanted dust before storing. Any excess waste can be disposed in a household bin bag.
