Water pressure

You need to check if you have a high or low pressure water system and choose your tap accordingly. We've created this guide to help you.

Low pressure water system

You have a cold water tank in your attic and a hot water tank in your airing cupboard. You can choose any of our low pressure taps (minimum operating pressure of 0.1 – 0.5bar).

High pressure water systems

1. You have a boiler unit but no hot water cylinder, the boiler unit is usually found in the kitchen and delivers hot water on demand.

2. You have a hot water cylinder with an expansion vessel on top, usually found in the airing cupboard, but you do not have a cold water tank. You should be able to choose any of our taps.*

High pressure

Suitable for high pressure water systems only.

Low or high pressure

Suitable for low or high pressure water systems.

Manufacturer's guarantee

This varies according to the brand and the model. Your legal rights are not affected. Please see individual manufacturers' websites for guarantee details.

Single/side lever

Controls temperature and flow with one side lever.

Ceramic disc valve operation

More hardwearing valves with easier, low friction operation. Available in either 1/4 turn or single lever styles.

* Please note that mains water pressure can vary and may not always be sufficient for some taps. If you are in any doubt, you can check your supply pressure using a water pressure gauge (available at B&Q).

Appliances. After sales service

Although we pride ourselves on an excellent track record, very occasionally things do go wrong. If you have a problem with your appliance, you should follow the procedure below, which will ensure we rectify the situation as quickly as possible.

If a fault develops once your appliance is fitted and it is under guarantee

You may wish to contact the manufacturer direct. They will arrange for an engineer to visit your home – usually within 48 hours – to carry out the necessary repairs. If the appliance is not repairable, they will arrange delivery of a free replacement. Please note this service is only available within the guarantee period. Appliances must be fitted by an installer with the required registration for gas or electrical work, who complies with all current regulations.
