Bare plaster and lime washes inspire the warm, pink-tinted neutrals in this calming palette. Colour is barely there, with just a subtle nod to cleansing highlight shades of lilac and fresh greens. Deep saturated teal gives contrast to green and pink colour combinations, while chalky mauve complements neutral shades for tonal combinations.

TRENDS: RECHARGE

ENERGISING | POSITIVITY | RICH, SATURATED COLOUR | JOY | COLOUR THERAPY

Klein blue and sherbert coral inject energy into this palette, providing invigorating pops of colour to create a lively atmosphere across the home. Colour blocking key areas in a room in these shades adds vitality when paired with easy to use greys. Softer shades of carnation and blush pink offer easier updates to dusty shades and contrast when paired with cooler colours.

Taking inspiration from retro 70s nightclubs and bars, this trend offers an easy update for darker interiors and adventurous consumers wanting to take risks in their home. The decor is confident and bold if a little risky; householders dabble with animal print and 'dated' colours like avocado and camel. The colour palette has a distinct nostalgic appearance, allowing for tonal combinations of sage, avocado and hunter greens complemented by subtle colour clashes of port red and caramel.

WORKING WITH NEUTRALS

WORKING WITH WHITES

Soft creams and neutrals create a calm and cosy environment, making them perfect for your bedroom, nursery or snug. We can mix any colour, from the palest pinks to the most vibrant blues. But we also know how to make a really nice neutral too.

Identify the colours you are drawn to, choose a hint of these colours in your off whites and allow your walls to soften creating an inviting, tidy atmosphere. Whites are versatile, uplifting and fresh. Using the right white colour palette can trick your room into appearing larger and allows for a cosy, gentle and elevating habitat.
